This is Dan Beardsley's latest Seminar! He draws upon many years of experience as former head of Right of Way Departments at DOT&PF and Electric Power Systems, managing Acquisition and Permitting for both large and small linear and site projects. He is a former IRWA International President and is an excellent speaker, mixing appropriate amounts of levity with serious content. Dan has written IRWA courses and taught classes for decades. Participants will review a sample project scope of work, identify the tasks and project milestones required to accomplish the work, develop a project schedule and identify the impacts of resource availability on the delivery of the work products. State and Federal permitting will be addressed, and Dan may be assisted by Regulatory Agency Representatives during the presentation.
